

MARCH 29, 2019

HBJ reveals 2019 C-Suite Awards winners

GREG BORDONARO

The Hartford Business Journal has named six area executives as the recipients of its 2019 C-Suite Awards.

The awards recognize leaders from the for-profit and nonprofit sectors who have made significant contributions to their companies.

We've identified six leaders in various C-Suite categories - CEO, CFO, CAO, CIO and CMO -- who stood out for their commitment to excellence.

In terms of methodology, the business community was invited to submit nominees in five categories and the winners, which will be celebrated at our C-Suite Awards luncheon June 5, were chosen by HBJ's editorial staff.

They include:

CEOs

John Ciulla, President & CEO, Webster Financial Corp. and Webster Bank (over 100 employees)

Kevin Leahy, CEO, CT Wealth Management (Fewer than 100 employees)

Chief Financial Officer

Edwin Meyer, Vice President of Finance, Goodwin College

Chief Administrative Officer

Tracey LeMay, Chief Administrative Officer, CCO, Masonicare

Chief Technology Officer

Mark Boxer, EVP and CIO, Cigna Corp.

Chief Marketing Officer

Roberta (Bert) Wachtelhausen, SVP, Chief Sales & Marketing Officer, ConnectiCare

You can read about the winners in HBJ's special C-Suite Awards issue, May 6.

Thank you to our sponsors who help make the C-Suite event and awards possible: UConn School of Business, Comcast Business, Hartford Yard goats, Harvard Pilgrim HealthCare and Cox Business.

RELATED CONTENT

Cities Project: A statewide newsroom collaboration

Senate confirms David Lehman at economic development

Webster stakes $16.7M for Meriden housing

Tickets available for HBJ's inaugural Tax Reform Summit

Competitive concerns drive debate over free college, but financial restraints could limit impact